Ravenna Paper Criticizes Attempt to Exclude N. O. T. Co.

The Ravenna Republican has the following criticism to make upon the attempt of the promoters of the Portage Lakes Traction Company to exclude the Northern Ohio Traction company from Portage county:

The people of Ravenna and Portage county are patiently waiting the advent of electric street railways. They have had many propositions made, but all thus far the roads have been constructed on paper. When the Portage Lake Traction Company were granted a franchise no exclusive permit was asked and if it had been would not have been granted. Admitting that a company with sufficient capital has been secured to carry out the provisions of the franchise secured by them and that the road will be built, many cannot see why that company now should desire to block an extension of the Northern Ohio Traction Co.'s line to this place. Honorable competition is desirable in everything and we see no reason why it should not apply to electric railways as well as steam railways, grocery stores or newspapers.

The idea of waiting a year to find out whether one company is going to fulfill its contract before another company is permitted to enter the field, does not appeal to very earnest consideration. We have already been waiting too long. Place all applicants on an equal footing, using all possible safeguards for the people's interests now and the future, give the word go and may it be a survival of the fittest. No company should expect a monopoly and no company should be given one.

HIS BOAT.

Bentley Is Likely to Miss It.

Says He Is Going to Old Country.

He and "Swiftly" and "Greaser" Had Fun.

His and Other Sorrows Told In Court.

Bentley Wormold was his own lawyer in Police court Friday morning and endeavored to show that he was not intoxicated when arrested Monday night. Police Josiah Campbell was the first witness for the State.

"At 2 o'clock we found Bentley flat on his face in front of Bill Smith's saloon," he said. "We had to load him into the wagon as though he were a dead hog."

"Where was Smith?" demanded Wormold in cross examination.

"His place was shut up."

"I wasn't in front of his place at all."

"You were so paralyzed you didn't know where you were," said the officer.

Wormold had equal success in his cross examination of Officers Bradbeer and Mahony. He went on the stand himself and said: "Swiftly and Greaser and me were together. I had been taking quinine for the grip and it worked on me."

"There is one chance in 10,000,000 that you were not drunk," said the court. "Your symptoms were such that a fine of $0 days in the workhouse and $2 and costs will be imposed."

"I am going to the old country the fifteenth of next month," said Bentley.

"I hope so," said the court.

Frank Weinbreiner told the court that he had been drinking beer and after that knew nothing. He denied that he was drunk. Testimony showed that he created such a disturbance at the corner of Wheeler and Sherman sts. that four men were required to hold him and half a dozen calls were made for the patrol wagon. It was also shown that Weinbreiner is subject to fits when drinking. This was his third appearance.

"Of all men you should let liquor alone," said the court. "What business have you to drink at all when it affects you so?"

"Not any."

"I think the workhouse is the cure you need. Thirty days and costs."

"I came over from Kent," said Samuel Tennis.

"And got drunk?"

"I went to Barberton."

"Were you drunk?"

"I went to Barberton."

"Two and costs."

"Guess I'm guilty," said Charles Veon, charged with intoxication.

"Guess again."

"Well, I plead guilty."

"Two and costs."

"Is this your first appearance," asked the court, when Dan Sweeney pleaded guilty of being drunk.

"Yes, sir."

"I hope it will be your last. Two and costs—it is the usual price."

POINTING THE WAY. When a brave admiral in war time goes into an enemy's harbor he knows that the life of every man in the fleet depends upon his skill and courage. It is a tremendous responsibility; and yet he cannot feel it any more deeply and truly than a conscientious physician feels his responsibility for the lives of those who are dependent upon his professional care and skill. He feels that his duty demands more than a mere routine, stereotyped interest in his patients; he feels that his work is a serious matter; that it is often a question of life and death.

"You have my many heart-felt thanks for your kindly advice to me in my sickness," writes Mrs. Claus Nelson, of Pico Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Box 51, in a cordial letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "Also for your advice which I received two years ago, and which I have since followed. I had been suffering with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with the advice given in his book, cured me of five years' sickness. I thought my days would not be long, but your kindness and medicine would not let me die."

For more than thirty years Dr. Pierce has occupied a grand and most unique position for benefiting his fellow beings. As chief consulting physician of the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, almost countless thousands have sought his services and advice both in person and by letter. "He is one of the best men in the world," said the late President Garfield, "and he is at the head of one of the best medical institutions in the world." Dr. Pierce's great thousands of illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser "is sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the bare cost of mailing, or for handsome cloth-bound copy, 31 stamps. He makes no charge for consultation by mail; he only requests that sufferers will state their cases to him fully, freely, and in perfect confidence. Address Dr. R. V. called on a male friend. After leaving the place he disappeared.

The police were notified and since that time they have searched the city without finding any trace of the man. All day yesterday was spent by his anxious friends and relatives in searching all the hospitals, hotels, and railway stations. His wife is almost beside herself with grief and anxiety. Mr. Hall is a big, fine-looking man, able to take care of himself. He was well acquainted with the city. The only valuable property he had with him was about $50 in money and a gold watch, with his father's initials.

CATARH OF THE STOMACH. A Pleasant, Simple But Safe and Effective Cure For It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, sickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.
